

Delivery Pros must wear at least the Amazon-branded polo shirt, Amazon-branded bottoms and slip-resistant shoes while performing services. During cold or inclement weather, Delivery Pros for Branded DSPs are required to wear a branded polo shirt, branded bottoms AND a branded outermost layer. Compliant branded external layers include an Amazon-branded coat or jacket or an Amazon-branded vest over a personal coat or jacket.

The Amazon branded uniform consists of the following items (pictured below):

- Amazon Branded Polo Shirt (short or long sleeve)
- Amazon Branded Bottoms (shorts or pants)
- Amazon Branded Hat (Cap, Beanie or Bucket Hat) - optional to be worn based on DA preference, but they must be made available to all Delivery Pros
- Amazon Branded Outer Layer (if needed for cold or inclement weather)
- Protective Footwear – Closed-toe, closed-heel, slip-resistant shoes

- Delivery Pros may not wear non-Amazon branded baseball hats; if an Amazon ball cap is worn, it must be forward facing
- Delivery Pros may wear non-Amazon branded clothing underneath Amazon-branded polo shirts and bottoms uniform pieces while providing Services, but Amazon branded uniform pieces must be the outer layer at all times (e.g. what is visible to customers); Personal shirts, pants, leggings, hats, and protective equipment (e.g. masks/gloves) should be plain and free of any patterns or logos that could be visible to customers
- Uniforms must be professional looking with no rips, tears or stains. This includes clean, wrinkle-free attire; pants should fit appropriately and not drag beyond the heel of the shoe. Revealing clothes are not permitted.
- While accessories in good taste and in accordance with all safety rules are acceptable, they must not obscure Amazon branding.
